

Some colleges might ban the appearance of Condoleezza Rice. Others, including the University of Minnesota, go ahead over faculty, student and citizen objection. About 250 people turned out at the University to protest. Over half of the crowd were students.

The following are a three-part series of the protest.