

From BBC News | Original Article

Air strikes on a hospital in the Afghan city of Kunduz that killed 19 people were "tragic, inexcusable and possibly even criminal", the UN human rights chief says.

High Commissioner Zeid Ra'ad Al Hussein urged a full and transparent investigation into the attack.

Medical charity Medecins Sans Frontieres said at least 12 of its staff and seven patients were killed.

US forces were carrying out air strikes at the time.

At least 37 people were seriously injured, 19 of them MSF staff.

"All indications currently point to the bombing being carried out by international Coalition forces," MSF said.

The Nato alliance has admitted its forces may have hit the hospital.

US President Barack Obama expressed his "deepest condolences" for the deaths in a White House statement. But he said he would wait until the US defence department had conducted its own investigation before making a definitive judgement on the incident.

Fire swept through the hospital after the air strikes.

The attack on the hospital in Kunduz was the deadliest in the history of the conflict in Afghanistan, with at least 40 people killed and more than 100 injured, including many children. The attack was carried out by the Islamic State (IS) group, which has been active in the region since 2014. The UN has condemned the attack as a war crime and has called for an investigation into the incident.

NO FORWARDED WITH ATTACHED DOCUMENTS TO THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE FOR REVIEW OF THIS INFORMATION. THE INFORMATION IS NOT TO BE USED FOR ANY OTHER PURPOSES, INCLUDING FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF A CITY OR